XPO ANNOUNCES KEY HIRE FOR INTERNET RETAILER BUSINESS

Torrance, Calif. – Feb., 2009 – XPO, a leading provider of international and domestic mailing services, has hired Peggy Owenson as National Accounts Manager. Owenson will be concentrating on her specialty of supporting Internet retailers' challenge of shipping parcels and catalogs to the consumer market in the US and all over the world.

"In our industry, Internet retailers represent the largest growth category. Their needs are unique, which lines up well with our flexible mailing systems," said Kelly Herold-Martinez, CEO of XPO. "I've known Peggy Owenson for over 20 years and we have worked together at a previous company. Peggy is a pioneer in this sector, developing programs for some of the largest Internet retailers in the country. We are excited to have her as key member of our team."

Owenson's career in the mail industry started in 1987. Her most recent position was National Account Manager for DHL GlobalMail, a division of Deutsche Post Worldnet. During her tenure with DHL, she garnered numerous honors including three President's Club awards for ranking in the top ten salespeople in the country. In 2007 she achieved the highest level of distinction, winning the coveted Chairman's Cup award as the #1 salesperson in the US. In addition to working with many of the leading Internet retailers, she has also assisted start-up companies, not just for US shipments, but in their expansion to international markets including Canada, Japan and Europe.

"I was anxious to join XPO – now I can offer the best program for Internet retailers. The Internet has spawned innovative companies with needs outside the box. They need customization and XPO is the only company that has built their system with an extensive network of strategic partners and postal carriers. This allows for complete flexibility to tailor solutions for each customer," said Owenson. "XPO competitors' lack flexibility and generally specialize in domestic or international mail – XPO is strong in both areas. More importantly, in these economically challenging times, XPO's innovative service offerings provide an overall cost savings compared to other major competitors, making them really stand out from the crowd."

Owenson holds a business degree from California State Polytechnic University. She currently resides in Sonoma, CA.
